

Mark // I Can Give You The Promise

I hate your shame
Its burning flame
Come on choke down
Life's insane, it takes you down

Is there anybody who's ever seen me driving my brand new car?
The wheels they glitter and glasses sparkle from afar
Is there anybody who's heard my heartbeat when I play my guitar sometimes?
Vibrations of the crying strings take me out...
And when the people gathering around my house when I'm not in They praise me loud aloud aloud without a noise within
Is there anyone who is accusing me that I am undisposed to share my joy?
Forget me, I'm a dreamer, there's really nothing to destroy

I can tell you for sure
I can give you the promise
There's nothing to hide and steal
There's nothing to deal

I can give you the promise
I have nothing except myself
I can give you the promise
I have nothing to loose while I'm alive
I can give you the promise
I scream, I yell, I shout
I can give you the promise
I have nothing to loose and I don't need no help
I can give you the promise

Is there anybody who cares who am I indeed and what is my intention to proceed the greatest deed?
And what I do for all of you, that's even if I am the one of you in that crowd?
And why the hell you're staring at my loneliness?
And why the hell you're smiling with this smelly smile?
It makes me wanna die, but I won't die of this
And do not ask me "why do I need any promises?"

Is there anybody who's ever seen my tears when I'm staring at the sunset all alone?
Is there anybody who's ever made some photos when I drink the rain drops looking up to the sky?
Is there anybody who knows how deep I hate the things you like?
It makes me wanna die, but I won't die of this
And do not ask me "why do I need any promises?"

I hate your shame
Its burning flame
Come on choke down
Life's insane, it takes you down